Endau National Park

The Endau Rompin National Park is located at the Johor - Pahang border. It's a rich tropical rainforest with a wide variety of flora and fauna and is home to endangered species like the Sumatran rhinoceros. Permits are required and can be obtained at the District Office, just beside the Police Department in Kuala Rompin. Trekkers are guided by forest rangers to ensure safety at all times. Advanced bookings are required for the use of chalets and traditional huts.

Getting there: Only accessible by 4WD; packages can be booked with the National Park (Johor) Corporation. Pick up will be in Keluang town.
