Snakes, many of them venomous, often reside in their natural limestone cave habitats. The Snake Farm is a research facility to set up to develop serums for snakebites. Besides the scientific research conducted here, the farm is also a tourist attraction for those interested in learning more about the slithering serpents.

Phoca PDF